NOTES FROM YOUR EDITOR

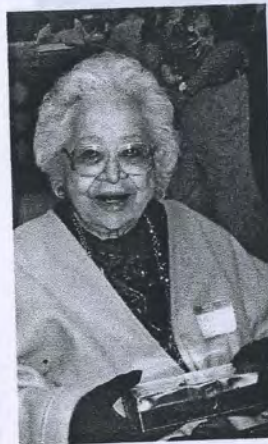

If you were unable to attend the Wells Reunion this year then you missed a good time. We were concerned that the gas prices may keep members away but our crowd was good. John B. Wells III, Terri and Josh were unable to attend due to other commitments and were greatly missed. Other genealogical committee members took charge and all turned out well. Everyone missed John's presentation of the DNA but they were able to view the DVD that Kelly Wells provided of the trip to England and the new cousins that you all had the privilege to meet. I realized that we missed a wonderful time by not taking the trip after viewing the DVD.

Due to having surgery on 9/19 and spending 8 days in ICU for the removal of a Pituitary tumor, I am running a little behind on getting the newsletter in the mail for you. After the surgery I had to deal with an infection that got into my sinus. I am almost back to normal and working on the newsletter. I am sure Manford thinks it is about time but he has been great during my recuperation and gave me plenty TLC. I do appreciate all the prayers, beautiful cards, flowers and phone calls. Many of you even visited me. I am thankful for such a wonderful family, cousins and friends who are there when we need them. Thanks again for I love all of you.

Manford and I are very excited about our new grandbaby and you can read about her under new births. I sent many of you a message by e-mail with a picture attached. I think she already has her own personality and has strong lungs like a lot of our Wells cousins. Grace Elizabeth and her parents, Katherine and Brad, are doing well and hopefully will be home from the hospital soon. Thanks again for your prayers and support, we love all of you.

SPECIAL MISSIONS

On: Dr. Lynn McMahan

By: Jeannie Peng, staff writer of a local paper

When Hurricane Katrina devastated the Mississippi Gulf Coast, Dr. Lynn McMahan and his staff at the Southern Eye Clinic in Hattiesburg shifted into disaster mode and headed south.

McMahan, Dr. Milam Cotton, four technicians and a nurse traveled to hospitals and shelters on the Coast to provide eye care to those in need, "Clinics on the Coast had all the doctors they needed, but no eye doctors," McMahan said.

Angel Misenhelter, practice development director for the clinic, said McMahan and Cotton took three vehicles and drove down to help people a week after the storm. "Twice a week for two weeks, the Southern Eye Center rented a van to provide transportation to Hattiesburg for those in need of eye care on the Coast, and, in conjunction with the Salvation Army, provided lunch for them," Misenhelter said.

Such generosity is typical of McMahan, coworkers said. McMahan, who doesn't reveal his age, said community service is just something he's grown up around. "My dad was big in community service," McMahan said "That's just the way I was raised. You give until it feels good, not till it hurts"

Wendy Greene, accounting and human resources coordinator, said that McMahan encouraged his employees after Hurricane Katrina hit, the first day we all came back to work, "Dr. McMahan told us that he would pay us to leave and go volunteer in the community," Greene said. McMahan also helped his staff during this time of crisis. "Dr. McMahan housed about six employees and their children whose homes were damaged from the hurricane," Misenhelter said. "He also called all the doctors and clinical managers to check on all the staff."

Twenty-nine years ago, McMahan founded Southern Eye Center in Hattiesburg. Almost three decades later, the clinic has become world-renowned because of his physicians and techniques used in eye procedures. McMahan was one of the first American ophthalmologists to use phaco-emulsification and intra-ocular implants and to perform the majority of his cataract surgeries on an outpatient basis, according to the clinic's Web site. He has been named in the Guide to America's Top Ophthalmologists and named in the Best Doctors in America and has work featured in 36 national publications. He also travels to five continents to give medical lectures on ophthalmology.

McMahan serves as president of the Hattiesburg Lion's Club. He also has received the International President's Citation from Lion's International and is a Melvin Jones fellow of Lion's Club, a member of the William Booth Society of the Salvation Army and a member of the Clara Barton Society of the Red Cross. But it takes some work to find out all this about McMahan, including his meeting with Nelson Mandela, President George Bush, President Bill Clinton and President Zia of Pakistan. McMahan doesn't offer much information and brushes off his achievements by saying, "I've done some mission trips, but mostly I just work all the time." But those who know and work with McMahan say he is a generous man who is not afraid to use his profession as a way to give back to the community.

About 20 years ago, he started Southern Eye Center's Gift of Sight Program to offer free surgery to patients who cannot afford non-elective eye procedures. Patients are selected for the program through referrals from other eye clinics. When asked how many procedures are done for free each year, McMahan said, "Sometimes 30, sometimes two. We don't keep track of them, we just do them." Service like this has earned the clinic the Governor's GIVE award for excellence in volunteerism. When McMahan is not busy helping the community, he said he enjoys being a husband to Marty McMahan and a grandpa. He also continues to learn. Recently, McMahan earned his full pilot's license and has used it at times to land his helicopter on the roof of Southern Eye Center. Dr. George Lynn McMahan is the son of Jewell Susan Clark McMahan and the late Bryce McMahan of Miss.

Dr. McMahan is the son of Jewell Clark McMahan and the late Bryce McMahan. His maternal grandparents were the late James Blaine & Lutie DeLong Clark and he descends from Richard Wells through William Green Wells line. His aunt Darlene Clark Burgess serves on the Wells Family Board.

WELLS BOARD MEETING

The Wells Family Board met on November 5th at the Golden Corral in Ashland, KY, enjoyed a good dinner and then had a good meeting with our new president Randy Wells presiding. The board acted on some important issues. The board voted to have the reunion on Sunday only since this will save the association several hundred dollars on insurance and janitor service. There will still be a grave tour. Details for this grave tour will be in the spring newsletter. MARK YOUR CALENDARS FOR SUNDAY. There will be no Saturday meetings. Details will be in the July 2006 newsletter.

AUCTION COMMITTEE

Ann Porter, Wanda Collins, Randy Wells, the auction committee and the board discussed ways of making the auction more interesting. It was agreed that we have many talented family members and we would like to encourage each of you to do something special for the 2006 auction. There are great family seamstresses who can make beautiful items. Many family members including men have special talents like in woodworking that would make great auction items. Special crafted items would sell easier and would make the auction more appealing. Remember this auction is one of the ways that help our reunion to continue to be an annual family event. As many of you know the funds are used to pay reunion expenses and for the printing and mailing of this newsletter. These are our two biggest expenses. We challenge you to make something special for the 2006 Reunion Auction.

FAMILY PROBLEMS

This article was provided by Eulah Wells Villines, Dayton, Ohio and I felt it was good enough to share with you.

Two men met at a bus stop and struck up a conversation. One of them kept complaining of family problems.

Finally the other man said: "You think you have family problems? Listen to my situation.

A few years ago I met a young widow with a grown up daughter. We got married and I got myself a step-daughter.

Later, my father married my step-daughter. That made my step daughter my step-mother. And my father became my step-son. Also my wife became mother-in-law of her father-in-law.

Much later the daughter of my wife, my step-mother, had a son.

This boy was my half brother because he was my father's son. But he was also the son of my wife's daughter which made him my wife's grandson. That made me the grandfather of my half brother.

This was nothing until my wife and I had a son. Now the half sister of my son, my step-mother, is also his grandmother. This makes my father the brother-in-law of my child, whose step-sister is my father's wife. I am my step-mother's brother-in-law, my wife is her own child's aunt, my son is my father's nephew and

I am my OWN GRANDFATHER!!!!!!!!!!!!

And you think you have FAMILY PROBLEMS!!!!!!!!!!!!

This article from the Ancestry.com website was provided by Bud Burchett from California. Following is a portion of the 80 page document. Many of you know that Lewis J. Green Sr. had a daughter, Nancy, who married Peter Hutchison. Their daughter, Susannah Hutchison, married our Richard Wells. More of the data may be included in the next newsletter as space allows.

DESCENDANTS OF LEWIS J. GREEN SR.

First Generation

1. Lewis J. GREEN Sr. was born about 1724 in, Prince George County, Virginia. He died in Oct 1784 in Blue Spring Rd., Near Glasgow, Kentucky (then Virginia).

He was a Private who served under Captain Robert McKenzie in Tennessee and Kentucky. He was stationed at Fort Nashboro in Nashville, Tennessee. He served in the French and Indian War.

He enlisted in Capt Robert McKenzie's Co from Dinwiddie Co., VA at age 30 at the rank of Private in the French and Indian War and also served in the Rev War in VA.

He was a vestryman in the church at Kilgore Station (Church of England?) and was very brown in complexion.

Lewis owned 41 acres of land adjacent to Porter's Fort in March of 1774.

A story about Lewis Green, Sr. told by Daniel Boone
Occurred near the Clinch River

Lewis and a brother-in-law, who resided near Blackmore's, on Clinch, about fifteen miles below Captain Gass' place, where Boone was sojourning, went out some considerable distance among the mountains to hunt. They selected a good hunting range, erected a cabin, and laid up in store's some jerked bear meat. One day when Green was alone, his companion being absent on the chase, a large bear made his appearance near camp, upon which Green shot and wounded the animal, which at the moment chanced to be in a sort of sink-hole at the base of a hill. Taking a circuit to get above and head the bear there being a slight snow upon the ground covered with sleet, Green's feet slipped from under him, and in spite of all his efforts to stop, himself, he partly slid and partly rolled down the declivity till he found himself in the sink-hole, where the wounded bear, enraged by his pain, flew at poor Green, tore and mangled his body in a shocking manner, totally destroying one of his eyes. When the bear had sufficiently gratified his revenge by gnawing his unresisting victim as he wished, he suddenly departed, leaving the unfortunate hunter in a helpless and deplorable condition, all exposed, with his clothing torn in tatters, to the severities of the season.

His comrade at length returning found and took him to camp. After awhile, thinking it impossible for Green to recover, his companion went out on pretense of hunting for fresh meat, and unfeelingly abandoned poor Green to his fate, reporting in the settlements that he had been killed by a bear. His [Green] little fire soon died away from his inability to provide fuel. Digging, with his knife, a hole or nest beside him in the ground-floor of his cabin, he managed to reach some wild turkey which had been saved, and with them lined the excavation and made himself quite a comfortable bed; and with the knife fastened to the end of a stick, he cut down, from time to time, bits of dried bear meat hanging over head, and upon this he sparingly subsisted. Recovering slowly, he could at length manage to get about. When spring opened, a party, of whom Boone is believed to have been on, went from Blackmore's settlement to bury Green's remains, with the brute of a brother-in-law for a guide; and to their utter astonishment, they met Green plodding his way towards home, and learned the sad story of his sufferings and desertion. The party were so indignant that they could scarcely refrain from laying violent hands on a wretch guilty of so much inhumanity to a helpless companion. Green though greatly disfigured lived many years.

Lewis married Elizabeth LAUDERDALE daughter of William LAUDERDALE about 1750 in, Culpepper County, Virginia. Elizabeth was born about 1730 in, Augusta County, Virginia. She died about 1805.

Lauderdales are descended from James Maitland Lauderdale, the Emigrant, who settled in Pennsylvania around 1714. He is thought to have moved from southwest Scotland, where the Lauderdale name is known in the 18th century, to Northern Ireland and thence to North America. See History of the Lauderdale's in America Heritage, 1998, Clint Lauderdale, mailto:clarlen@aol.com

We don't know from whom James Lauderdale, the Emigrant was descended, and he made no claims to be descended from the Earls of Lauderdale. Equally, he was firm in his assertion that he was a Maitland by origin, and this is the tradition which he handed down to his children and grandchildren and which was formally recorded by James Shelby Lauderdale in 1880. This refers to a meeting between his Uncle Sam, and Dr David Lauderdale who met in 1830, and discovered that they shared a common family tradition. Another Lauderdale from New York was met in 1880 in St Louis with a similar tale.

Lauderdale as a family name, not connected with the title, first appears in the Scottish parish records in Galloway in the early 18th century with the birth of Jean Lauderdale in 1737, the daughter of James Lauderdale at Beith, Ayr.

Maitlands have lived in or been connected with Galloway since 1360, and our understanding of James the Emigrant is that he came from that part of Scotland, so the combination of geography, name and his family tradition makes it almost certain that he was a Maitland by origin, and as such, related by blood to the Earls of Lauderdale, but not descended from them.

Washington Co., VA
Elizabeth, who appears in the records of Washington County in 1797 as "old and infirm" and gave power of attorney to "my son-in-law Moses Foley." She died about 1803, intestate. Appraisal of there estate was presented to the court by Zachariah Green.

Lewis and Elizabeth had the following children:

Lewis J. GREEN Jr.

Second Generation

2. Lewis J. GREEN Jr. (Lewis J.) was born on 5 May 1751 in Dinwiddie County, Virginia. He died after 10 Jun 1835 in Callaway, Harlan County, Kentucky. He was buried in Kirby Cemetery, Callaway, Bell County, Kentucky.

A Lewis Green was listed in 1790 and 1795 Russell Co., Virginia Personal Property Tax List. Upper District

Lewis, Jr. was a Revolutionary War Veteran from Virginia. He was one of the first settlers on the Cumberland River. He lived in what is now Calloway, Bell Co., Kentucky. He was buried at what used to be Old Meeting House Branch, now Callaway. During US119 construction in 1960 in the Calloway area, his grave was relocated on land which belonged to John Matt Pursiful, just outside of the private cemetery known as Newt Creek Cemetery. He had been in Kentucky with some of Daniel Boone's scouting parties, and returned there as a surveyor and acquired the property from the top of Pine Mountain to the Cumberland River. Tan Yard Hill was part of his property and got its name from the tanning vats used in curing animal skins. He was an Indian spy and Scout.

"DECLARATION

In order to obtain the benefit of the act of Congress of the 7th of June 1832-State of Kentucky, county of Harlan, on this 4th of November 1833, personally appeared before the undersigned and acting Justice of the Peace for Harlan County, Lewis Green a resident of the Cumberland River; in the County of Harlan, and the State of Kentucky age 82 years the 5th of May last, who being first duly sworn according to law, doth on his oath make this following declaration, in order to benefit of the promissory made by the act of Congress. June 7, 1832, that I enlisted in the spring of 1776, as well as I remember, in the county of Russell and state of Virginia on the Clinch River, about nine miles from the county seat, for and during the Revolutionary War, under John Blakeman, William Moore; Lieutenant Joseph Moore; brother of William Ensign, Isaac Shelby.

I was forted at Blakeman's Fort on the Clinch River. Afterwards I was forted at Duncan's Fort also, about ten miles higher up on the Clinch River.

Our constant business was to guard the frontier from the Indians. I can give no distinct history of my service for it was one continual employment from these forts to scout the surrounding country, and spy out the hiding places of the Indians, and keep them from annoying the frontier settlement. I served seven years, and was discharged when the war was over, which was in 1783.

I have no record of my age as I have lost my discharge. I need a written discharge for my services in the Revolutionary War, signed by Shelby.

I never was in a general battle, but many of the times, when in the discharge of my duties as a spy in reconnoitering the surrounding country, that my fellow soldiers, when least expecting it, fell by my side.

I do not know of any soldiers by whom I could prove my service. If Congress had passed this law a few years earlier, I could have found witnesses a plenty, but now, if any with whom I served are living, it is unknown to me.

After my enlistment, I served under different captains, but I remember none other than Shelby.

I was living in Russell County, Virginia when I enlisted in the Revolutionary War.

I am known to Rev. James Hall, Jacob Saylor, Parker Howard, William Howard, and many others who would testify to my character for veracity and their belief of my services as a soldier of the Revolutionary War.

I hereby relinquish my claim to a pension or assuming accept the payment, and declare that my name is not on the pension roll or agency of any state --- I further declare that from old age and bodily infirmity, I am not able to travel to the court house, a distance of seventeen miles, from where I live.

Sworn to and submitted the day and year aforesaid. (Signed) Lewis Green

We James Hall a clergyman residing in Harlan County, Kentucky, about two miles from the above applicant and William D. Green, residing in the same county and state hereby certify that we are well acquainted with Lewis Green, having known him twenty-one years, who has submitted and sworn to the above declaration that we believe him to be eighty two years of age--that he is reputed and believed in the neighborhood where he resides; to have been a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and that we concede in that opinion.

Signed and sworn to this day and year above written before.

Elijah Green-
Justice of Peace
James Hall
William D. Green

And I do hereby declare my opinion, that after the investigation of the matter and after putting this interrogation prescribed by the War Department, that the above named applicant was a Revolutionary War soldier, and served as he states, and that from bodily infirmity, he is unable to attend court, being a distance of seventeen miles--and further certify that James Hall who has signed the foregoing certificate is a clergyman of my own knowledge, and that he together with William Green (Article ends)"

6. James GREEN Sr. (Lewis J.) was born in 1757 in Virginia. He died on 31 Dec 1782 in Wise County, Virginia. He was buried in A Hollow Chestnut Tree.

Robert Kilgore, husband of Winnie Clayton, was killed in what is now Wise Co., Virginia at The Pound at a place called Warrior's Camp. Robert and Winnie lived along the Clinch River in what is now Scott Co., Virginia, then Russell County. His property directly bordered that of his brother Charles and was also located near that of Partrick Porter also of Orange Co., North Carolina. Several of the families who settled this section of Scott Co. were originally Orange Co. natives.

On December 31, 1782, James Green, husband of Jane Porter, and Robert Kilgore, Sr. left their hunting camp at the mouth of Indian Creek and Pound River and crossed a ridge heading toward Kentucky. They left a man by the name of McKinney in the camp. Two gunshots were heard by McKinney, followed by the unearthly yells of Indians. Before McKinney could grab his gun, he saw Robert Kilgore running for his life toward the encampment, shouting, "Run McKinney, leave all, save yourself!"

McKinney didn't wait to be told a second time. As he reached the crest of the ridge, he looked back, to see James Green fall, closely pursued by Mingo. Green sprang up, grabbed out his hunting knife, but before the Indians reached him he collapsed. As the sun was sinking, McKinney reached Fort Blackmore.

By first light of the following day, the militia was on its way far up Stoney Creek, reaching the hunters encampment long before sunrise on January 1, 1783. No Indians could be found, but the camp had been pillaged. Next morning, they found the scalped remains of Robert Kilgore and a few hundred yards away, the body of James Green, with an Indian arrowhead in his right eye. The bodies were buried in a hollow chestnut tree on the north bank of the Pound River, a short distance above the mouth of Indian Creek.

There is no information on what happened to Winnie Clayton Kilgore after the death of Robert. It is believed she remarried, probably in Russell Co., Virginia, unfortunately marriage register burned in a fire during the late 1800s. Family legend says she moved to Indiana with her oldest son Charles and died there, but there is no proof.

BIOGRAPHY: This story is contributed by Dan Williams, a Green descendant. It is part of the "oral history" that he grew up hearing as a child in the 1920's and 30's. This story and other information was published in 1994 in a book that Dan wrote on the Green and LeForce families of Harlan/Bell County.

Zach was out on Pine Mountain near present day Pineville hunting turkeys & shot a brace, which he put in his sack. Indians hearing the shots started hunting Zach. Zach ran around Pine Mountain, Grandfather naming all the creeks & branches as he ran. finally he doubled back and started to run over the trail where the Indians had first jumped him. He continued along this trail in the same direction as before until he came to a hollow tree just off the trail. Here he jumped off the trail into the tree, hoping the Indians would continue on down the trail for a ways, and in this way make his escape.

To Zach's surprise there was a bear in the hollow tree, deep in his winter's sleep. Zach quickly got his knife into the bear's heart, and this caused the bear to wake up, and more that a bit angry. Man and bear came out of the hollow tree in a rush. The bear, now awake, was inflicting terrible wounds on Zach. He had Zach's head in his mouth and was shaking him like a rag doll. Suddenly the bear dropped dead, and Zach lay beside him, to all appearances also dead.

The Indians came upon the scene about the time Zach and bear came out of the tree, and watched the fight as it raged. The Indians built a rack and placed Zach, his gun and turkeys on the Rack. They made a large fire and started to roast pieces of the bear after first eating the raw heart of the bear. They began to chant and praise Zach as a mighty hunter, a great warrior who could kill a bear with only a knife.

Zach came to himself on the rack. He was bleeding from deep claw wounds on his chest and arms, and teeth wounds on his head. He put turkey feathers on his wounds to stop the bleeding. After he gathered his strength he loaded his gun and jumped down among the feasting Indians, with the intentions of surprising them and making a run for it. Before he could discharge his weapon the Indians were gone, sure that Zach was a man returned from the spirit world to avenge himself on them. They left the Cumberland not to return for several hunting seasons believing that Zach was waiting for them. Zach ate bear meat for several days until he got strong enough to return to camp, but when he got there his companions had left believing that the Indians had got him and were now hunting them.

After that the Indians called Zach the Turkey Man, because when he jumped from the rack he covered with feathers and they thought he had flown down from heaven to avenge himself on them. My Grandfather, also believed that when his wounds healed the feathers were under his skin, where they could be seen, and that for years the feathers would cause festers, and be expelled.

Elisha was not married (2) to Barbara RISNER daughter of Michael RISNER and Catherine. Barbara was born about 1793 in Hawkins County, Tennessee.

She died before 1859 in, Harlan County, Kentucky.

Barbara was the fourth child of Michael, Sr. and Catherine Risner, and she was the great-grandmother of Elder Benjamin Risner. Barbara was the granddaughter of Hans (Henry) Risner, our first ancestor who came to America. She was born in Tennessee in 1793, and she came with her family to Puckett's Creek, Kentucky at the beginning of the nineteenth century. Later in her life, she may have lived on Brownies Creek, Kentucky.

Barbara had a very exciting and complicated life. To understand her, one needs an open mind and a forgiving heart. She was described as a beautiful person. Being of German lineage, she said her prayers in German. Grandma Virginia Risner said that those who knew Barbara were impressed when she said "Chestment". This was her expression for going into the closet to pray. She always got on her knees and stooped before speaking to God.

Grandma Risner said that Barbara had four illegitimate children. They were Fielding Risner Green, Katie Risner, Henry Risner and Sallie Risner. Then Barbara married Jiles Cox of Brownies Creek, and had four children by him. John Cox was a cousin to Elder Ben Risner, Sr.

Grandma Virginia Green Risner gave the following list of relationships: Josiah Hoskins, the father of Henry Risner; Lish Green, father of Katie Risner, Fielding Green, and Sallie Risner. Perhaps Lish reared Fielding Green. Sallie Risner married a Burns and made her home on Straight Creek. Fielding Green married Easter GREEN and made his home on Yellow Creek, and the place is still known as the Fielding Green home. Hanna Cox married John Rollins; Rachel Cox married John Lee; James E. Cox, who was born in 1829, married Sallie Lee. (The fourth child was Joshua Cox m. Elizabeth Bingham) Grandma Virginia said that Katie Risner married Little John Miracle, who became a confederate soldier during the Civil War. While the rebels were on a reconnoitering mission near Tanyard Hill, Little John Saylor, a Union sympathizer and only sixteen years old, told his observing friends to watch him shoot that rebel. Saylor said "Watch the rider on that white horse." That is how Little John Miracle was killed.
